tried for the involuntary manslaughter of their son, Jody. It was not until two weeks before trial in June, 1983, that Stein complained with a subpoena for all records, which revealed Jody died from a disease and not as a result of blunt trauma to the abdomen, the suit says.

On June 21, 1983, Kompare was found not guilty by Cook County Associate Judge Edward Fiala Jr. in Old Orchard Branch Court.

But the suit said Stein's and Deputy Medical Examiner JoAnn Richmond's suppression of their finding of the congenital disease led to the unfounded criminal charge.

The incomplete autopsy also resulted in Kompare losing her job as a Chicago public school teacher, her hospitalization for psychiatric treatment and the loss of custody of another, adopted child, according to the suit.

During adoption and Juvenile Court hearings in the custody case, the suit charges, Richmond testified that superficial bruises found on Jody's body were evidence of child abuse when she knew they resulted from the massive internal hemorrhaging.

The suit contends both Stein and Richmond violated Illinois statutes requiring them to deliver complete autopsy findings to the state's attorney's office within 72 hours of the exam.

Priest faces sex charges involving teenage boy

By Rosalind Rossi

A Roman Catholic priest, on leave from the Chicago Archdiocese, was indicted yesterday on sex charges involving a teen-age boy.

The first of the three alleged incidents occurred while the Rev. Robert D. Friese, 32, worked at a suburban home for troubled youths and involved a resident, then 13, of the home, investigators said.

Friese, of [redacted] currently is assigned as a researcher at the University of Illinois-Chicago's Child Care Program, which trains students who want to work in institutions for disturbed children.

Friese was indicted on three sex charges involving a youth, now 15, he allegedly met while working at the Maryville Academy, a residential home for troubled youths at 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines. He is no longer employed at the home, investigators said.

He is accused of molesting the youth in Maryville in October of 1982 and engaging in a sex act with the teenager that same month in his home, investigators said.

Friese also is accused of another sexual incident on July 31, 1984.

DRAFT OF A LETTER TO BOB FRIESE

Dear Bob:

Thanks for your letter of May 27. I appreciate the fact that you shared with me some of the thoughts and reflections which grow out of your painful struggling with the important decisions about your future. The words of your letter reflect the inner debate first leaning in one direction, then in another. This must have been a very challenging time for you. I want you to know that I have tried to support you with my prayers during this period when, as you said so well, "I am in neither world, cleric or lay."

Concerning some of the specific points you made, let me contribute these observations:

First, I understand your apprehensions about having the past be dragged into the present if you return to the priesthood. However, have you considered the possibility of returning to active ministry in another Diocese? Then, after a period of solid work, you could return here to Chicago with no cloud over your head since you would have a proven record of effective ministry. I have been able to make such arrangements in previous situations. Other bishops have been most cooperative and it has generally worked out well. If you are interested in pursuing this possibility, please let me know.

Concerning your observations about the laicization process, your remarks are correct. Currently it is a lengthy process and in most cases the Holy See is reluctant to grant a decree of laicization. Here in the Archdiocese we try to be as helpful as we can in assisting resigned priests who wish to apply for a laicization, but, as you can understand, our effectiveness is limited. Should you wish to begin the process, I would recommend that you contact Father Ken Velo at 751-8213. I'm sure you will find him very knowledgeable and helpful.

Again let me say that I understand the tension and turmoil under which you have been trying to make these very important decisions. If I can be of further assistance to you, Bob, please don't hesitate to contact me.

May the Lord continue to be close to you.

Sincerely,

No sex with youth: priest

A 33-year-old priest Tuesday denied charges he initiated a sexual relationship with a 15-year-old ward of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

Robert D. Friese, 2118 Freeman Court, Inverness, testified at his bench trial in front of Cook County Circuit Judge Lawrence A. Passarella that he was friends with the boy, but the relationship was not a sexual one. He is charged with criminal sexual abuse and two counts of indecent liberties with a child.

Friese testified he became close to the boy while working as a surrogate parent at Maryville, a home for dependent and troubled children, but had had no sexual contact with him except for an occasional kiss on the face or neck. He said that a written confession he gave Chicago police after his arrest in August 1984 is false. He acknowledged making statements to police but testified he did so only to protect the boy.

Chicago police officer Marie Woods has testified that Friese admitted having a sexual relationship with the boy in an interview at his office at the University of Illinois in Chicago, where he worked in the child development program. She said he later repeated the admission at the police station.

In the written statement, Friese is quoted as saying he started a friendship with the boy during the boy's treatment for emotional and behavioral problems at Maryville. Friese was on leave from his duties as a parish priest for St. Juliana Church in Chicago. The relationship became "an adult concern" he is quoted as saying.

WHILE ONCE on an outing together, the boy called him "dad," Friese purportedly said. In early 1983, the court document says, Friese said he told the boy he would adopt him and made an initial contact with Lutheran Family Services. The adoption never went through.

Friese testified he continued to see the boy after he resigned his job at Maryville in May 1983 and the boy was reassigned to a group home in Chicago. He said he usually found the boy on the streets in Chicago's predominantly gay New Town neighborhood.

"He had lost a lot of weight," Friese said. "His eyes were sunken in. He was running away constantly. He was openly bragging about using drugs.... One day while we were walking south on Broadway, he said he could get anything he wanted and do anything he wanted."

Friese reported the boy's drug use and prostitution to police. In August 1984, after the boy discovered Friese had talked to authorities, the boy told police he had been sexually abused by Friese, the priest testified.

Friese testified he didn't deny the charges because he believed he was protecting him. He didn't specify how that would help the boy.

The trial is scheduled to continue Nov. 14.

Priest to testify in sex trial

An Inverness priest on leave from the Archdiocese of Chicago is expected to testify today in his defense against charges he sexually abused a 15-year-old former Maryville Academy youth.

Defense lawyers said Robert D. Friese, 2115 Freeman Court, will take the witness stand in his trial on one count of aggravated criminal sexual abuse and two counts of taking indecent liberties with a child.

Friese, 32, who took a leave of absence from the archdiocese more than four years ago, is accused of sexually abusing a boy he met while working as a surrogate parent at Maryville, the Des Plaines-based home for dependent and neglected children.

THE INCIDENTS OF sexual abuse allegedly took place after Friese left Maryville and after the boy ran away from the facility. Friese is charged with molesting the boy on July 31, 1984 at the North Avenue Beach in Chicago.

Rev. John P. Smyth, Maryville's executive director, testified Monday he hired Friese in March 1981, shortly after Friese quit his duties as a priest.

Friese's first assignment was as a family counselor in one of the academy's group homes, Smyth testified. Friese counseled a group of girls and their surrogate parents, adults who try to simulate a home atmosphere for Maryville youths.

In late 1982, Friese asked to be transferred to one of the group homes for boys to work as a surrogate parent, Smyth said. One of his charges was the 15-year-old boy he is accused of later molesting. The youth, whose father had died and whose mother had failed in caring for him, had emotional and behavioral problems, Smyth said.

Friese began taking the boy on weekend outings, which was a typical responsibility of the surrogate parents, Smyth said.

FRIESE'S FATHER, Robert, testified his son often brought the boy to their Inverness home on holidays and for special family occasions. The boy occasionally would stay overnight.

Smyth said Friese left his job at Maryville in May 1983 to pursue studies at the University of Illinois at Chicago. He also was employed by the university's child development program at the time of his arrest in August 1984, according to police records.

In February and July 1983, the boy was charged in separate incidents of burglary and attempted burglary and sentenced to 30 days in the Audy Home. Last April, the youth was arrested for unlawful use of intoxicating drugs and sentenced to 24 months of probation.

Smyth said the boy also has been involved in prostitution since he left Maryville. He is currently assigned to a state-run home in Bloomington.

Home for tough kids takes its lickings, keeps on ticking

Eric Zorn

Tough times are no stranger to institutions dealing with tough kids, and Maryville Academy in Des Plaines has seen its share.

The century-old home for 200 abused, neglected and homeless children, the largest of 76 such homes in Illinois, has weathered a near-closing for lack of funds, a riot between students and members of the surrounding community, a severe reduction in the size of its operation and generations of difficult, often violent youths.

As often as not, when Maryville's name is in the news it's an aside in a story about a former student who has been killed on the streets or committed a crime. More recently, Maryville came up when a former priest and counselor there was convicted of sexually abusing a 14-year-old boy at the school.

"That hurt," said Rev. John Smyth, the former collegiate basketball standout who, as director, saved Maryville from the wrecking ball 15 years ago. "Was I betrayed? Yes. Was I disappointed? Hell, yes. But Maryville will survive."

The most spectacular symbol of Maryville's determination to survive is the annual Chuck Wagon, a picnic that attracts a crowd of 10,000 and features sports and entertainment personalities. It is the school's largest single fundraising event.

This year's Chuck Wagon, to be held next Sunday on the school grounds, at Des Plaines River and Central Roads, is expected to raise close to $1 million of the school's $2.5 million annual operating budget.

The negative publicity surrounding the molestation charges was ironic in that Maryville has placed an emphasis in recent years on the care, counseling and rehabilitation of victims of sexual abuse, prostitution and child pornography. Such children are frequently housed at Maryville as part of witness-protection programs administered through law enforcement agencies.

"Pimps tell these kids that no one cares for them and no one will take them," said Rev. David Ryan, Father Smyth's assistant. "But we will."

All of Maryville's youths, from runaways to throwaways, reside in "family living" units that consist of eight or nine youngsters and a married couple who act as surrogate parents. Father Smyth, who borrowed the idea in 1979 from Boys Town in Nebraska, uses it to simulate the everyday family life that many of the children have never known.

The house parents, who earn a rather spartan annual salary of $18,000 a couple, stress a combination of academic skills, home economic skills and social skills.

The children learn to cook, sew, shop for food and keep themselves and their clothes clean. They are extremely well-drilled in the art of the firm handshake, and a visitor can get some sore hands on a several-hour tour.

In this regard, the kids are protégés of Father Smyth, the priest whose hands, in their glory days, pushed and shoved under the boards so often that he still claims the Notre Dame University varsity record for fouling out of basketball games. Father Smyth's hands are gentler today, but nearly as active. When he talks to Maryville residents, he likes to keep one big, friendly hand on their shoulders and the other locked in his grasp. They beam at him in return.

Rev. John Smyth, director of Maryville Academy, and Rev. David Ryan, Father Smyth's assistant, talk to Ray, 16, while Dana, 14, wipes some chalk from Smyth's back. "We get tons of love," says one resident. "To me this seems like a normal life, maybe better."

"I look at him as dad," said Sherri, 16, shortly after an informal colloquy with Father Smyth in the hallway of Maryville's high school. "I go to him with school problems, home problems... even boy problems. He's great."

Because of parental neglect, Sherri was taken from her family by state officials when she was 7, and she has been at Maryville the last six years. Her last name and those of other state wards are withheld here in accordance with state guidelines.

"We get tons of love," she said. "To me this seems like a normal life, maybe better."

Tom, a 14-year-old drifter from Niles who has been in and out of residential schools, hospitals and shelters since he was 5, says Father Smyth is "a lovable guy" who has taught him that "life is not a bag of cookies, and you need to show some responsibility if you want to get respect."

"It takes a lot of heart to go into something like this," he says. "It's amazing. I mean, he could have been a pro basketball player and he chose this."

Father Smyth's hardwood legacy is well-known around Maryville. A burly 6-foot-5-inch football and basketball standout at Chicago's De Paul Academy, he made the Notre Dame basketball team as a walk-on and became the captain and leading scorer his senior year, as well as making honorable mention All-American.

The old St. Louis Hawks chose him in the first round of the 1957 professional draft, but he decided he had a higher calling. He entered seminary training and, five years later, ended up at Maryville.

The academy then was an aging, prison-like facility that had been totally rebuilt by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago after an 1899 fire destroyed all but one building. It housed 1,000 troubled youths in large dormitories that Maryville historians liken to a prison.

In 1971, John Cardinal Cody appointed Father Smyth, then in charge of Maryville's elementary and high school programs, director of the financially ailing academy. He was given a year to turn its fortunes around.

He immediately razed most of the huge, rattletrap dorm buildings and put up smaller, modern residences.

Father Smyth also helped organize an interscholastic sports program with similar child-care institutions. In the program, state championship trophies for sportsmanship are bigger than those for winning games.

The youths who are referred to Father Smyth's care by the state are often violent, troubled children who have been in and out of other homes and have histories of antisocial behavior. The student population is more than half black and Hispanic.

In the last three years, Maryville staff members have applied for workman's compensation benefits more than 75 times as a result of physical attacks by residents.

Father Smyth has never been the victim of a beating, as much because of his size as his cleric's collar, though he has suffered three mild heart attacks since coming to Maryville.

In the summer of 1976 when Smyth was away, 10 carloads of young adults from neighboring areas drove onto Maryville's isolated, 70-acre grounds to fight an ugly, racially motivated battle with academy residents. "They were gonna take over," says Father Smyth, "but our kids demolished them."

On Jan. 15 of this year, Robert Friese, who worked at Maryville from 1981 to 1983 and was fired for "erratic" behavior, was sentenced in Cook County Criminal Court to four years' probation for the sexual relationship he had with a boy whom he met at Maryville.

Father Smyth said the academy "acted quickly to remove Friese when it became apparent that he was getting too emotionally involved with the youths" in his charge, though there was no evidence of sexual abuse at the time.

Maryville has come through these and other difficulties and is solvent, independent of Church financing and ranks as the 3d-largest facility of its kind in the country, behind Boys Town and St. Johns, a New Jersey school. It has branched out in recent years and now sponsors a summer camp in Wisconsin, the Paulina House emergency shelter for youths in Chicago and several foster parent training programs.

Father Smyth says his goal is to reduce the statewide population of homeless youths. That population was estimated last fall at 21,000 by a gubernatorial task force, of which Father Smyth was a member.

The task force reported that nearly 7,900 youths had been rejected by their parents, 7,000 had been pregnant and 9,000 had been sexually exploited while on the streets.

"It's a horrible situation," says Father Smyth, drawing deeply on a Marlboro Gold. "Sometimes you hear things so awful you almost have to laugh."

But Father Smyth has never regretted choosing the pulpit over the pros: "Did I agonize over it? Oh, for a moment, I suppose. But I realized in my senior year that I wanted something permanent and meaningful.

"And I got it. We're really creating new lives here."

Victim Statement Abstract

This abstract supplements a report prepared by the Chancellor of the Archdiocese of Chicago, Very Rev. John R. Keating, dated September 9, 1980, summarizing the report of Victim KT concerning inappropriate behavior and sexual misconduct by Fr. Robert Frieze. According to the summary, Frieze spent a great deal of time with a group of boys, including Victim KT, providing them with alcohol and drugs. Frieze also massaged the minors and engaged in "what appeared to be anal intercourse once." This conduct occurred at the St. Cyprian rectory between 1978 and 1980.

September 16, 1980

Today, at my request, Fr. Friese came to the Chancery. He was dressed in clericals (the first time in a year I have seen him so dressed). Our meeting, in my office, lasted from approximately 10:40 to 11:40AM.

I reviewed the history of the turmoil at St. Cyprian's parish... the many meetings during 1979, lasting 6 months, between the Urban Vicar, Fr. Jakubowski and Friese and/or priest staff and parishioners. Fr. J clearly had recommended to Friese that he ask for a transfer. Friese refused.

Next step was the unanimous confidential recommendation of same made by the Personnel Board on Oct. 26, 1979, relayed to him by me on Oct. 29th, with a deadline of December 1. On December 1 he wrote me (cf. file) refusing. I then had him in at St. Louise, repeated that it was now the wish of the Ordinary that he move. He demurred and refused.

January 29, 1980, we had the confrontation in my office of Frs. Friese, [REDACTED]. Still the battle raged; Friese refusing to budge. The upshot ~~was~~ my order that he leave, terminating his assignment at St. Cyprian and transferring him to St. Juliana on March 17, 1980. It was a temporary assignment [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

I used the example of the diocese dealing with an alcoholic priest. Only when the man finally admits his alcoholism and allows himself to sincerely undertake professional therapy is there any chance of rehabilitation. And when rehabilitation takes effect, it reproduces our very best priests.

Applied to Friese I described, as above, his continuous pattern of denial, denial, intransigence, intransigence. The question was how will he begin to believe me that he needs help, serious help. When will he finally admit his own need for help, for emotional survival? I indicated sporadically that I knew many details of his inappropriate behavior and attitudes...e.g., his disproportionately close association with [REDACTED] the camping trip even the day before, the smoking of pot, the rages and tears, the events of the village hall meeting of 1979, etc. He never denied any of these things and was quietly surprised that I knew so much.

He insisted that he was tired of this hassle for so many months and wanted to get the thing "cleared up once and for all," as though it were a court case to decide innocence or guilt. I calmly stated that since all our months' of trying to help him have failed, there is only one thing left to do. "We've decided to let you go, Bob...a six-month leave of absence." He seemed genuinely relieved, anxious that it take place by letter, with copy to St. Juliana. October 1 seemed perfectly acceptable to him. October 1 to March 31m 1981.
[REDACTED]

He said he certainly would do this.

Now that this was settled, apparently to his complete satisfaction, he said:

"Now that that's over, I'd like to talk to you as a fellow priest, not the Chancellor. I'd like your advice. You see, my parents are livid about the way you've treated me and they intend to sue for psychological damages. Now, I'm trying to dissuade them, but I doubt if I can be successful. How do you think I should handle this problem?"

Showing absolutely no surprise, I told him that this obviously is a well-intentioned expression of his parents' deep love for him and his welfare. He should thank them for the accolade but ~~premise~~ make an added effort to reassure them of his love for them.

He seemed thankful for the advice. We parted, gingerly shaking hands. Incredibly, he appeared contented and at peace for the first time in my acquaintance.

Dear Father Friesse:

For the reasons which we discussed personally on Tuesday, September 16, 1980, His Eminence, Cardinal Cody, is terminating your temporary assignment to St. Juliana Parish and hereby grants you a temporary leave of absence from assignment in the Archdiocese of Chicago. Your leave begins October 1, 1980 and extends for six months, that is, to March 31, 1981.

While on leave, your license to function, or represent yourself as a priest is withdrawn, and you are dispensed from the normal obligations of clerical garb and the Divine Office.

When your leave is about to expire, please contact me to discuss what is to be done. We hope that this period of leave will prove to be of great spiritual and physical health. You know that you can count on a fraternal and prayerful remembrance each day.

Please advise us of your new address once you have begun your leave.

Very truly yours in Christ,

Very Reverend John R. Keating

At the request of His Eminence, Cardinal Cody, I wish to acknowledge your gracious letter of September 29, 1980, in which you advise His Eminence that you are taking up temporary residence with your parents and that you will continue to receive professional counseling and therapy during your leave of absence. This is very good news, and His Eminence is extremely grateful for your communication.

His Eminence, however, prefers that you remain in contact [redacted] It is our sincere hope and prayer that these coming months will bring you some of the Lord's very best blessings.

His Eminence also mentioned that it is not customary to send regular mailings to other addresses besides rectories. After your return, all pertinent information can easily be supplied you.

My dear Cardinal,

In response to your memo of October 15, 1980 I have the following to say. In the brief time that Father Bob Ffiese was with us here at St Juliana's I'd say that he was received by 95% of the people most favorably in matters liturgical. The five percent are not only in opposition to him but to anyone else who celebrates the Eucharist here. I have never met people more negative. How would you feel if you were to offer the sign of peace to the writer of the complaining letter and be responded to with no acknowledgement, and this same response each day?

This young priest is indeed undergoing serious difficulties, as you and I are aware of. I am certain that we are both praying that the next six months will set him in the right direction and that he will respond to God's help. I, too, receive letters from the couple who complained to you and others in their group who have complained to you in the past. There are so many good things happening in this parish that they refuse to be a part of. I feel sorry for them, and to the best of my ability I will continue to ignore their negativism and many complaints.

Yes, Father Ffiese has left our parish at the directive of Father Keating. He is residing with his parents. The people here really do not know too much about him and maybe it is better that way

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Father Ahern

Fr. Keating,

My parents, among others, have begun a fact-finding effort to understand, persue, and solve the present status of my work with the Catholic Church. This is being done for a number of reasons, the following among them:

- Parental concern for the offspring's life, rights, and happiness.
- A desire for truth and hard facts.
- Faith and a sense of Justice.
- The prolonged handling of this matter without apparent resolution
- Inconsistencies in Diocesan actions.
- Slander of individuals.

As such, their rights supercede mine; they do not need my permission. I do give them my support and approval. However, I am also aware that I have been myself refused the right to see my file as I have requested.

Since their efforts at this point are fact-finding, it is not within their rights to volunteer information regarding myself, nor to answer questions. They are asking questions to establish hard facts, verify or deny assertions, and surface concrete evidence. Whatever they find as the result of this meeting, they may handle as they wish.

Their efforts have also included asking me for information. They will use this in their interview. Permission to see, or copy, or keep this material is denied to anyone except them.

I am sure that as always you will be highly co-operative and enlightening. With the deepest of fraternal regards as you begin this interview,

Robert Freese

MEMORANDUM

TO: CARDINAL CODY
FROM: FR. DAN COUGHLIN
DATE: OCTOBER 31, 1980
RE: LETTERS REGARDING FATHER FRIESE

Your Eminence:

This is an unfortunate situation. This young priest is already alienated and disturbed. Such agitations plus the lack of good judgment and cooperation can only cause more pain. Certainly personal problems reveal themselves in the liturgy. At the same time, the local pastor's judgment that these people are troublesome must be taken seriously. It is sad to realize that at times people have such little respect for the priesthood. It is even more sad when they take their hostility out on the weakest elements.

Fr. Keating,

Of course, my parents returned home to an immediate long talk. In fact, that talk has been going on now for a few days. Their summary of the m in points of your discussion is being sent to you.

I'm sure you understand that my priority is to clear my name. What twmpers that is I am essentially a quiet person. Having been thru the diocesan seminaries, I know very well the value of a healthy positive PR. And the effects of a negative PR as well. So the reluctance to use legal court means to clear up this mess is decidedly mutual. It could hurt the diocese, yourself, and my future. As you yourself suggested to my folks.

I understand from my folks that you have offered to help clear my name. I know that you cannot muzzle the laity, but the clergy are another question. Today I learned that I was again slandered in River Grove, but this time by the associate at St. Cyprian. I trust my source completely, since they have nothing to gain by this report.

This incident happened during a phonecall, where this priest described me as a manic-depressive, and "had worked with this kind before." To the best of my knowledge, he does not have a psychology degree; the classic description of a manic-depressive doesn't fit. And aside from the moral question of gossiping slander, there are certainly professional questions about a priest volunteering any such information to a parishoner. Even more amazing, he said this to a person who wanted to again be active in the parish, and turned them off. And incredibly, this person had just inferred their lack of involvement was due to their friendship with me and pain at seeing both myself and many parishoners hurt by the actions of the pastor diocese and other parishoners. Talk about lack of tact!

Legally I could cry Lawsuit! But all I'm looking for is a written retraction and personal apology. And the same to be given to this parishoner.

It is good to see the Church taking positive steps toward a hopeful solut on. It is unfortunate that the laity have to push us around into doing our work. As long as these steps are obviously being taken, and the solution is coming closer, that is all I can ask.

Dear Father Keating:

We wish to confirm our conversation with you on the 30th of October, listing the facts as discussed. If we are in error, please advise us.

1) It was our understanding that there were letters sent to you from a parishioner of St. Cyprian's Parish, accusing our son, Father Robert Friese of immoral activities. During our meeting, you assured my wife and me that there are no such letters in his files, which leads us to believe that an investigation was conducted and he was found to be innocent of any such charges, is this a correct assumption?

2) It was discussed that [REDACTED] you would take action to clear his name with St. Cyprian's Parish and the Archdiocese in the above matter.

3) We have requested Father Donald Ahearn to help us emotionally through this very upsetting and trying situation which has been going on for over nine months without being resolved.

Again, we thank you for the considerations and time you gave us to help bring this disturbing situation to a close.

Sincerely,

November 22, 1980.

Dear Cardinal,

I'm writing to ask you for a favor. As of October 1st, I have been ordered to take a leave of absence from active work in the diocese. I'd like to come and see you to talk about this leave. I'm more than a little confused about why the leave was ordered, and how I return to active work as well. Also, my reputation is around zero in the diocese right now, and my vocation is becoming drier than the Fall leaves.

In the last year I've done whatever Father Keating ordered, yet the situation gets worse. I realize that Fr. Keating told me not to get in touch with you about this matter, but many priests have recommended that I write. Your reputation for helping the priests is more than well known.

I'd also like to bring Father Donald Ahearn with me, if you agree. The frustrations I'm going thru are making it hard for me to express myself clearly, and Fr. Ahearn is aware of my situation. I know this is a strange part of my request, but I've been writing this letter for four weeks now; I think it would help for me to have Fr. Ahearn clarify what I'm saying. I haven't mentioned this request to him, so that if you feel it would be improper to have him present, it will be no problem.

I also ask that you do not tell Fr. Keating about our meeting. He was so adamant about my not contacting you that I suspect it would cause complications.

I know that your schedule is always overly hectic and demanding, but I really need to sit and talk with you. Because of the leave, I am available any time or day.

Thanks for your consideration. I hope to hear from you soon.

Rev. Robert Friese

Dear Father Friese:

Since returning home from the hospital, I am only now able to reply to your very gracious letter of November 22, 1980 regarding my decision on your assignment in the Archdiocese.

I made the decision to grant you time between assignments to enable you [REDACTED]

This, in fact, is a condition of your reassignment.

This is not merely my decision, but is the unanimous decision of everyone, at every level of your religious superiors, arrived at after many, many months of careful consultation and consideration. This decision was made solely and exclusively with one motivation - for your personal benefit. This decision was made in a well-considered effort to assure that you be a happy, healthy, and effective young priest of the Archdiocese.

May I take this occasion to assure you of my blessing and to pledge a special Christmas prayer for you and your dear parents.

With every sincere personal good wish, I am, dear Father Friese,

Very truly yours in Christ,

INFORMATION FORM

FOR

YOUTH CARE STAFF TO PARTICIPATE IN EVALUATION

Please read the following document carefully. When you complete each paragraph, write your initials in the space to the left of each paragraph.

This document provides for the inclusion of Robert Friese
(Youth Care staff member) in ongoing evaluation performed by the Maryville Evaluation/Staff Education Divisions.

Purpose: I understand that there are two basic goals of this evaluation:
The first is to evaluate the behavior of the youths before, during and after their residence at Maryville and secondly, to evaluate the training procedures used to teach qualified adults to be professional child care staff.

I understand that attainment of these goals will help assess individual youth progress, individual home (living unit) effectiveness and total program effectiveness.

Procedures: I understand that to attain these goals, Maryville will need to obtain information from youth care staff and youths using the following procedures: Direct In-Home observation; satisfaction questionnaires; problem behavior checklists; incident reports; consumer evaluations;
maintenance evaluation; video taping; etc.

I understand that the general purpose for using this evaluation format is to permit an analysis which demonstrates the effectiveness of the program in changing the youth care staff's behavior. These changes are expected to improve the youth care staffs instructional, social and home management skills.

Potential Discomforts: I understand that the potential discomforts to me accompanying this evaluation are: 1) direct observation of the home behaviors could temporarily disrupt the daily activities of the home; and 2) questionnaires I will be required to fill out could take up some of my time that otherwise might be devoted to some other activity or task.

I also understand that every effort will be taken to insure minimal interruption of daily activities of the home during direct observation; and that the questionnaires I am asked to fill out will be limited so as to insure ease in completing them.

Potential Risks: I understand that the potential social or psychological risk to me accompanying this evaluation is there is a slight risk that my name as an individual could be associated with particular evaluation results and become publicly known.

INITIALS
I also understand that every effort to insure confidentiality will be undertaken. My real name will not be entered in any publication or evaluation results and will not be made available to unqualified non-program personnel. If it is necessary to refer to individuals in publications I understand that pseudonyms and code numbers will be used instead of my real name.

INITIALS
Potential Benefits: I understand that the primary benefit I may receive as a result of my participation in the described evaluation is a knowledge of the skills utilized by youth care staff members in their administering of an individual home or homes. Other benefits could include the improvement of the program in individual homes and increased knowledge on the part of other persons about the benefits to these homes.

CONDITION FOR EMPLOYMENT

INITIALS
I understand that the signing of this form is a condition for employment in the Youth Care Department of Maryville Academy. I also understand that any evaluation data collected as previously described, may affect my employment at Maryville Academy.

If I think my rights are violated at any time, or if I have not been treated according to the description of what will occur as stated in the consent form, or if I have any questions of any kind about specific evaluation procedures, I can contact the following individual: Mr. Don Ferro, Director of Youth Services, Maryville Academy, Des Plaines, Illinois.

It is with pleasure that we confirm your appointment to the staff of Maryville Academy effective 3/9/81. It is understood that you will be employed at the rate of $9200. per YEAR and you will work the hours as have been scheduled by your supervisor. It is also understood that all new employees are on a six-month probationary period and must be evaluated after six months by their supervisor. In the case of Child Care Workers, an interim evaluation will be made after three months of employment. A copy of your Job Description has been reviewed with you. If you have any questions, please consult your supervisor.

Your employment will be governed by the personnel policies and practices of Maryville Academy as outlined in the copy of the Policy Manual which you have received. In accordance with these policies, this letter of appointment is contingent upon our receiving a satisfactory report of physical examination and chest x-ray. The benefits available to all full-time employees are also outlined in the Policy Manual.

Participation in the Federal Social Security Plan is part of the employment contract. Deductions are made from each salary check.

This contract will be completed by your signing and returning to us a copy of this letter. We welcome you to the staff of Maryville Academy and anticipate a mutually happy association.

I accept the terms of my employment with Maryville Academy. I have received a copy of my job description and a Maryville Academy Policy Manual. It is my responsibility to read this material and understand it. Ignorance of personnel policies will not be accepted as an excuse for failure to comply. I will discuss with my supervisor any questions I might have.

I understand that I cannot operate a Maryville vehicle unless I am twenty-one years of age and possess a valid Illinois Vehicle Operator's License. Also, I cannot use my personal automobile to transport Maryville children unless I have permission of the Maryville Executive Director and/or his authorized representative.

Dear Dr. Salloway:

I knew Robert Friere from September 1979 - through March 1980. During this time of association I found him to be anxious to cooperate with me. He evidenced a good rapport both with the students in the school and high school age people. He was active especially in dealing with high school students individually and in groups.

Sincerely,

Dear [REDACTED]

I hope this letter gets to you in time for your consideration in the hiring of Mr. Robert Truse on your staff.

I have known Mr. Truse for several years. During this time, he made great progress with the youth of our town. Instead of them being on the street, Mr. Truse was taking them to Great America.

Indiana State Bq. during the winter months was even trying to track them took the time when no one

Re: Bob Frieese

Dear Sir:

I have known Bob Frieese as a close friend and confidant for a little over three years. In this time I have observed many characteristics which will be an asset to Bob as he works in your program.

As a child care worker here in Quincy, it has been my belief that a deep sense of caring for the child is perhaps, the single greatest asset for any individual to possess. Bob has shown, by his past work, this love and caring for others.

Bob has also had a great deal of experience in counseling and guiding all types of people. This wealth of background in dealing with people one on one should contribute to Bob's work as a youth counselor.

Other factors which should be of assistance to Bob are his maturity, self-responsibility, and his insight into problem-solving.

All of my personal experiences with Bob have been positive and fulfilling. Having used his spiritual guidance on a number of occasions as well as being a close friend allows me to speak with experience. Bob is a multi-faceted individual who has the potential to give a lot to the boys at Maryville Academy.

Sincerely, /

Fr. Keating!
Nice of him!
March 29th, 1981.
ask me.

Your Eminence,

On September 16th of this past year, I met with Fr. Keating. At that time, we mutually agreed that I would start a leave of absence on October 1st lasting until April 1st of this year. I was to get in touch with you shortly before the end of the six months. This brief letter is being sent for that purpose.

During this leave, I have begun a course of study in counseling and youth work, which will last at least one year. The particular area will enable me to be more effective in the work I have been doing as a priest. It will also complement my Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology, and the work I have done with the Nipe Family Service. I realize that the date of completion for this work is open-ended, but only because of the nature of what I'm trying to learn. I have every intention of again asking for full active work with the office at the end of this time. //

Because of the commitment of time and learning which I made to this program, I cannot request re-assignment now. I will do so as soon as the commitment, learning, and provide certification allow.

Hopefully during this time, the negative reputation which I gained will fade and disappear.

[REDACTED]

May God grant me the grace of Hobbins and help to achieve these goals. And may I have your encouragement as well.

With sincerest regards,
Robert F. Foss.

Rev. Robert Frieze

Dear Father Frieze:

I was delighted to receive your gracious letter of March 29, 1981 in which you describe your plan to undertake a course of studies in counseling and youth work. In light of your reasons, I am extending your leave for an additional six months, not only to enable you to pursue the above-mentioned course

I understand that your course of studies will not be completed within six months, but it is my customary policy to grant leaves only in segments of six months, to assure your consultation with me on a regular basis. I pray that this period will prove to be most beneficial toward your happy and healthy resumption of priestly duties in the future.

Please be assured of my blessing and a pledge of Lenten prayer for you and your dear parents.

With every sincere personal good wish, I am, dear Father Frieze,

Very truly yours in Christ,

Archbishop of Chicago

Dear Dick:

Some weeks ago, in fact a couple of months ago, I received a letter from Bob Friese asking if he could serve as a priest in our Diocese of Eastern Montana. I really delayed responding to that letter until just this week. I am enclosing a copy of my response to him which strongly suggests that he keep in contact with yourself and the Archdiocese. I really hope that some resolution might be had of this question for your sake as well as his.

I hope all is going well. You are always welcome in Eastern Montana.

Dear Bob:

Thanks for your recent letters and I apologize for not getting back to you sooner. However, these last weeks and months have been extremely busy and I just don't know where the time has gone.

I appreciate your anxiety and your concern about the future. I also appreciate your desire to continue ministry in some other location. However, I really believe it is important that before you start searching for some other area in which you might exercise ministry that you resolve any conflict or disagreement you have with the Archdiocese of Chicago. Otherwise, this will always remain something unresolved and could prove painful and difficult for you in the years ahead.

You were somewhat taken back by my statement that Father Jim Keating was a person who was most willing to help people, but I sincerely believe he is exactly that. I would really urge you to try to follow the recommendations that Father Keating has shared with you. This may prove to be very difficult for yourself, but I sincerely believe it is the best way to go.

Thanks again for writing to me and my response to you is really one of concern and appreciation for who you are and what gifts you possess that could be shared with other people. However, I would urge you to be in contact with the Archdiocese and the Personnel Board and to try to follow what is recommended to you by them.

Take care and be assured of my prayers for you and your family.

Sincerely yours,

Thank you for sending a copy of your letter of May 7, 1981 addressed to Bob Friese. I really appreciate both the tone and substance of your reply to him.

Unfortunately, Bob is still resistant [REDACTED] the Cardinal has urged him to follow. Thus far, he has not approached us with the idea of seeking leave from Chicago, in order to work elsewhere as a priest.

September 28th, 1981.

Dear Cardinal

On October 1st of 1980 I began a leave of absence from active priesthood, under mutual agreement arranged by the chancellor of the diocese. In April of 1981, I received a six-month extension of that leave by letter from yourself. I am still presently on leave of absence.

My work at Maryville Academy still continues, where I work as a Family Teaching Assistant in one of the Homes. The skills I am learning are great adjunct learning to my previous education.

I am also assisting in a purely lay capacity developing a response to the religious needs of the 135 youngsters. Specifically, I help plan and assist people at liturgies, am assisting in setting up religious education classes, am tracing down sacramental records on the 60 Catholics, doing the groundwork for sacramental receptions. I stress that at no point have I acted as a priest, taken the role of a priest, or been dressed as a priest. I am acting as a lay person only.

I am also acting as custodian for a group-home during remodeling.

Frs. Smyth and Tilford have offered to answer any questions in regards to my work, position, character and disposition.

At the present time I wish to extend my leave for another six months. I am close to requesting a return during this six months. Hopefully you can give me some assurance that this is still a possibility. I know that if I apply and am accepted, it will take time to re-polish the skills necessary as well as prepare myself. When the time comes, I'd like to discuss plans with you in detail for your approval.

Dear Cardinal,

On October 1st of 1980, I was granted a leave of absence from active priesthood by mutual agreement with Fr. Keating; to be renewed in six-month periods. This leave was renewed in both April and October of 1981.

In my letter of October 1981, I indicated that I may soon be requesting a return to active priesthood. Recently

I am working as an Assistant Family Teacher at Maryville Academy in a highly-stressful group home on-campus setting. I have worked closely with seven different couples, in four different homes, populations of both boys and girls, 11 to 18 years old.

I have seen these homes by myself during the couples' time off, reactions, and during the replacement of couples. I have just finished seven weeks as the primary staff in a home of nine girls. Fr. J. Keating has offered to send you an assessment of myself, as has Neil Hallway, Director of Community II, where I work.

During the first six-month period of concentration spending another job in a potentially useful field. I settled on a diagnostic with case of Maryville, to obtain my degree in psychology.

The second period of special working with the psychiatric and anger that came from my first period. In brief, a sense of perspective: distance and healing have taken place.

M/and 30th, 1982.

This last six months has been a time to specifically question my vocation. I have considered options, variables of satisfaction and happiness, motivation, and personal goals.

at this time I request that you consider my returning to active priesthood.

I have two other requests. The first is that my change in status take place on June 21st, the usual date for priest transfers. This would allow me to prepare myself to again take up the responsibilities & obligations of priesthood, and give sufficient time at work for a replacement to be located, educated and placed.

The second request of the two is that you consider assigning me to Maryville Academy at that time. Having worked and directly used the systematic program at Maryville for over a year, I have experience which no other priest has, even at Soystron. This could benefit not only Maryville, but also the entire diocese.

Although I make these requests, I am totally flexible on your response. My primary desire is to return to active priesthood and use the talents, insight, sensitivity and education God has allowed me.

With fraternal respect,
Robert Fries

CARDINAL CODY

To: FATHER KEATING

Re: Attached Letter of March 30, 1982

Date: April 7, 1982

It is nice of him to decide to return to the priesthood after almost two years serving as a layman. I would, in no way, countenance his remaining at Maryville as a priest. It would be a scandal to the children there.

One never knows what Father Smyth is doing, -- I would never have permitted him to hire this man if I had known about it.

At the present writing, I feel like telling him to find another diocese where his condition would be unknown; and where I would give him a recommendation to "try it again." -- I am almost certain that he will not stay with us.

Please talk with me about this "strange case."

LETTER OF REFERENCE

RE: Robert Frieese
Associate Family Teacher

We have known Robert in a professional capacity for approximately a year and a half through the Teaching Family Model by his work at Maryville Academy. Robert came to work with us as our Associate Family Teacher with the highest professional recommendations on July 15, 1982; having worked in a similar capacity with Mr. & Mrs. Donald Winkler, Certified Family Teachers. Prior to working with us, Robert had already earned our respect for having worked through and managed homes during very difficult transitions between Family Teachers. Robert also had volunteered his time on occasion to work with Family Teachers who were in need of an assistant in order to secure much needed private time from their duties. It was through our direct work with Robert while he was with these homes and by indirect references made by Family Teachers whom he was supporting that we made our decision in May, 1981 to hire Robert. In fact, we waited through seven weeks of a very difficult summer without an associate while Robert continued his work in one home, managing it while arrangements were being made to secure new Family Teachers. Such was the strength of his recommendations.

As our Associate, Robert shared fully in our commitment to the needs of the youth in our home. He would apply himself dilligently to teaching programatically the curriculum of social and academic skills to our youth. In order to work as effectively as he did in his teaching capacity, it was necessary for Robert to adopt his professional set of techniques, tolerances and expectations to those of our home without qualification, a task he did enthusiastically without reservations. In fact, in light of the professional success which he enjoyed with (and most times without) five other sets of Family Teachers; it is truly a work of not only the highest degree of professionalism, but that of personal courage to have deferred on a myriad of occasions to the demands of our home without hesitation or the slightest detectable trace of resentment.

One of Robert's most appreciated traits was his ability to give, receive and share feedback and in so doing create a truly caring and pleasurable atmosphere for all of us. This made it possible not only for a great deal of technical growth to be had by Robert while he was with us; but also ensured that all available resources could most effectively be directed toward the children in order to foster their growth. Robert possesses a unique quality in assessing and judging character strengths, weaknesses, peculiarities and other facets of human personality which made him an invaluable resource in dealing with youth, parents, teachers, and all others who impacted the lives of our youth. We were able to set together and formulate strategies which would not have been as robust were it not for his unfettered input. We were able to qualify his insights without fear of cutting them back altogether and we, many times, turned to Robert for inspiration when our own faculties were dimmed. If a mistake were made, Robert would in such case ask what could be done to correct it. Robert was quite open during strategy sessions, but in every case would support group decisions after such were made.

Robert worked in the total capacity as a Family Teacher while in our home. As such, he was a great asset in developing relationships with teachers, parents, administrators, counselors, police officers, case workers, youths and any number of other types of individuals who were many times, if not hostile, down right difficult to come to terms with. There is not a time that comes to mind that Robert left them with any less than would be meet for the circumstances or the level of professionalism which we represent.

Robert's concern for us as his immediate supervisors was always above his own. He worked for many more hours than for those which had been presented him at the point of interview for his position. In fact, there were many times he averaged 60+ hours/week for weeks on end. He would stay many times for an hour or more on his own after his schedule to recap and strategize.

In addition to Robert's unflagging support and commitment to the Teaching Family Model exemplified by the development while in our home of his low tolerances, high expectations and ability to perceive opportunities to teach the youth and outside consumers about the youth's needs; Robert brought with him a very high degree of administrative and managerial skills to our home. He is a fastidious vote taker, is extremely well organized (and helps to organize others) and is able to converse with persons of any and all stations in situationally appropriate idiom and veraculor.

In closing, a personal word must be inserted in support of Robert. He is one of the warmest most gentle hearts we have had the occasion to meet in all of our years both individually as well as together. His sense of humor has a vast range and depth. Robert has been and continues to be a trusted colleague and source of inspiration both professionally and personally. It is without a slightest reservation that we sincerely endorse his recommendation to continue in his work in the service of the Lord and any and all stations therein to which he is called.

We remain open to any and all further inquiry.

Dear Father Frieese:

His Eminence, John Cardinal Cody, was unable to reply to your gracious letter of March 30, 1982. However, before he died, he shared your letter with me.

Because the Archdiocese is presently in an interim period, I think it advisable if you would repeat your request to the new Archbishop of Chicago, once he is installed. It would be his decision to make.

May I take this occasion, Bob, to wish you well and to reassure you of our continuing prayers. I hope your parents are in good health. Please give them my personal regards.

September 10th, 1982.

Archbishop Bernardin,

I am a member of the ordination class of 1978, presently on leave of absence from active priesthood. This is by mutual agreement with the late Cardinal Cody thru Fr. Keating as of October 1st of 1980. The leave has been extended in six month periods thru the Cardinal's office.

In April of this year, I requested a return to active ministry. The Cardinal's death came prior to his responding to my request. Fr. Keating notified me by letter that a decision on my return would need to wait until the installation of the new Ordinary, due to canonical authority in the matter. A copy of his letter is enclosed.

I am again requesting a return to active priesthood, this time to yourself. However, I know that you are extremely busy with the mail, learning about the diocese, taking on the information necessary to fulfill your responsibilities as Ordinary. Therefore let this letter be an introduction of my request to you. At your convenience, I would like to discuss my request with you.

I am living at my parents' home, address as above. I have been working at Maryville Academy for one and a half years, with the boys and girls living in the homes on grounds. My position is Family teaching Assistant/Family Educator. I am including one letter of reference written by a previously employing couple, originally meant for the late Cardinal. Fr. John Smyth also has offered to answer any questions which you may have regarding myself during this employment.

Thank you for your time.

Dear Bob:

First, I want to thank you for your visit last week. I was pleased to meet you. Needless to say, I am delighted that you are interested in returning to the active ministry.

As we agreed, I shall be getting in touch with you soon. It will be some time after November 1. I am leaving for Rome tomorrow for a meeting of the Permanent Council of the Synod and shall return the night of November 1. Because of my heavy schedule, I was not able to follow up on what I needed to do before contacting you again. I did not want you to think, however, that I had forgotten you.

Be assured, Bob, of my affection, concern, and prayers for you.

Dear Bob:

I have now had an opportunity to reflect on your request to return to the active ministry. I have also had an opportunity to review the situation from the perspective of those who worked with you before you went on a leave of absence. I am prepared, therefore, to share with you my own perception of the situation and how we should proceed.

I am willing to receive you back. As a priest ordained for the Archdiocese, I want to do everything I can to facilitate your return. At the same time, I cannot -- for your sake and that of the Archdiocese -- be completely oblivious to the past. The comments which follow, however, should be seen in a positive light, that is, as a genuine effort on my part to resolve any difficulties which might stand in the way of your serving the Archdiocese well and of your own personal happiness and well-being.

Since it would be very difficult for me to evaluate the complaints made against you and your own response to them, I shall simply state in a positive way what I would expect of you as an active priest. You would have to live up to the expectations of the Church and the people in terms of your personal life-style and your ministry. It is not necessary for me to spell this out in this letter but I would be pleased to clarify it further in a personal visit.

I hope, Bob, that what I have suggested sounds reasonable to you. After you have reflected on this, please let me know what your reaction is to this. I also encourage you to speak with Father Bob Heidenreich of the Personnel Board. I have discussed your situation with him.

Archbishop Bernardin,

I have taken your advice to spend some time reflecting before answering your letter from November 9th. Please be assured that the delay is because I had to identify a need I was feeling, not because of your letter.

Among other things, I need to re-establish my trust in the diocese, a process which has begun thru your warmth and concern. Thanks for showing such trust in me, an almost totally unknown person to you at this time.

Your sentence about lifestyle and ministry struck a chord I didn't identify until this last weekend. While my faith is relatively intact as I told you at our meeting, I need to re-evaluate my expressions of that faith. First, because I haven't been able to express my faith publicly presidentially for the last two years. Second, because if I am not consistent with the Church at this time, I must be before assuming active ministry. I need a spiritual director, but I really don't know whom to ask. Possibly you could make a recommendation. I would feel more comfortable knowing I was in effect dealing with a person who is almost an extension of your vision.

I need to know however how financing will be handled. I guess that sounds trivial and mundane with the topic we're discussing, yet it is germane. I do want to return, and I realize it will take my time and effort.

Please send a copy of this letter to Fr. Heidenreich. I would be glad to make my contacts thru him.

This is an ideal Advent. Thank God. Thank you.

March 30th, 1983.

Cardinal Bernardin,

I hope this letter is not too abrupt. Please remember I am talking from the position of my feelings, and not necessarily facts; so I do not intend to "place blame" on anyone.

I have made a decision, and it's not an easy one. I've re-written this letter more than five times, more than five different ways. I know that I don't yet trust the diocese enough to believe I'll never go thru the pain and abuse of three years ago, once again. I can't see any change in the results or conditions of the summer of 1980 if I spend my time and money when nothing has significantly changed in the diocese yet. I'm sure I don't want to come back to a situation where rumors and gossip prevent me from receiving a fair treatment- which to me means I'd rather feel needed than tolerated. And most importantly, I can't subject an already bruised vocation to possible if not certain re-abuse, which would certainly destroy it.

I don't regret my decision. I know I need time to let the trust and confidence grow in me while the diocese needs time to earn that trust. And the diocese must learn to trust me as well. Of course, I will have a lot of questions from people. My family is already upset. But I feel comfortable inside, more peaceful with this decision. Probably the best explanation is that I never caused the original abuse, I suffered it. But if I went back right now, I'd be abusing myself.

I am very sorry that so much of the past happened. But I cannot be sorry about my choice. I am willing to talk about it if you would like. Hopefully, in five years or so, things will be different. But not now.

Respectfully,

Robert D. Fries

A Family Educator brought concerns to [redacted] concerning Bob's unprofessionalism. On Saturday evening (6/4/83) Bob took nine kids for a walk without communicating with the two family educators who were working with him. Twenty-four hours later the other family educator attempted to give Bob professional feedback on his lack of communication for the previous night. According to the other family educator Bob responded by stating loudly that ^{"on my own time"} "I can't talk to you - if you have concerns write them up and give them to [redacted] and [redacted]". This was followed up by individual consultation with both Bob and the other family educator and then a joint session with Bob and the other family educator.

(6/7/83) During the individual consultation with Bob, [redacted] and [redacted] also brought several other concerns that had recently come to their attention.

- a) Friday - June 3 - Bob reportedly was excessively harsh with a youth and was reportedly yelling at him and consequently the youth with an 8:00 b for making noise with a toothbrush. The youth accepted his consequences but was reportedly crying uncontrollably. (It should be noted that after Bob received the feedback from [redacted] and [redacted] he apologized to the youth.)

B.) On Friday June 3, Bob was observed by others to be spending what was considered to be an unacceptable amount of time with a youth from Community II when he was on duty with our home.

C.) Feedback had been given to Bob that he should not be coming into the home on his off days. On Sunday, June 5, Bob accompanied the home on an all day activity without consulting with [redacted].

That same night, the same F.E. who witnessed Bob's temper display, went out to socialize ^{with Bob}. Bob again displayed a lack of professionalism when he

3) Inappropriate restraining of youth

On Tuesday, June 14, 1983, Bob was restraining a youth in an inappropriate manner. He had the youth on his ^{one hand} ~~arm~~ and knees and his body lurched underneath the chair which Bob was sitting on. ~~The youth's~~ head was between Bob's knees causing pressure to his ears. The youth's arm was twisted behind his back with his thumb pushed down to his wrist. Another youth walked into view and verified this with me. He also stated that the youth was moaning ^{due to} ~~with~~ the pain.

4.) Swearing in front of youth

In reference to the above situation: When the other youth walked into view, Bob stated to him, "Excuse me other youth's name, but youth's name is being a pain in the ass again."

5.) Yelling at youth

On June 3, 1983 Bob was observed yelling at a youth who was being loud with his toothbrush in the bathroom. His voice tone was excessively loud and appeared to be filled with anger. Bob's consequences were ~~extremely~~ unusual; harsh in relation to the behavior the youth was exhibiting. The youth accepted his consequences, however, he appeared to be emotionally distraught over Bob's harshness and unfairness.

6.) Temper display in front of youth and staff.

On Monday evening, June 7, 1983, Bob was in the office writing report. Another family educator walked into the office with a youth who has having a difficult time and Bob stood up and walked over to the file cabinet. He then threw the report form all over the office stating, "I can't take this anymore." He left the room and the youth asked "what was wrong with Bob."

7.) Unprofessional acceptance of feedback from co-workers.

(5)

On June 5, 1983 a family educator attempted to give Bob professional feedback on a situation which occurred the previous evening. Bob stated, "I'm on my own time now I have nothing to discuss with you if you have a concern, you write it up to [redacted] and [redacted] and we'll discuss it."

* STOP
Please add the closing statement & names w/ space for signatures.

Additional behaviors not to be reviewed but worthy of concern:

1.) Defamation of co-worker's character in a public establishment. (Sexual derogatory statements concerning co-worker and a Maryville youth Also slanderous statements regarding a Maryville Administrative Staff member. This was said in front of many family educators in a public place.)

2.) Suspicion of inappropriate sign of affection toward Maryville youth. (Kissing on cheek, kissing on the back of the neck, late

Paper

Please type up but do not include them with the rest.

suspicion of grabbing a youth's groin during horseplay, innuendos that he has slept with a Maryville youth who he acts as a volunteer parent to.)

3.) Physically intimidating a youth -
Bob physically intimidated a youth by walking towards him with his chest thrust out and poked him with his hands on the youth's chest. This was observed by a family educator.

4.) Discussion of personal, serious issues with co-workers.

- Bob has discussed his past attempt ~~at~~^{rat} committing suicide with his co-workers.

- Bob has discussed reasons for leaving the priesthood which he stated revolved around sexual issues, both homo and heterosexual.

- Reinstatement into the priesthood would require one year of individual therapy as told to Bob by the Cardinal.

5.) Several sexually related incident reports. (Very often, Bob would take a simple incident and somehow make into something sexual. i.e. - A youth had stolen a chocolate chip cookie and Bob thought it was a "beauti-flesh colored dildo". He pulled the youth's blanket down and accused th youth of hiding something.

Your help and consideration in th matter are greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Fr. Smyth,

At this time I would like to notify you of my resignation from working in the Whitlock Home at Maryville Academy.

My decision to do this is based on a need to find a job with more regular hours and work week, as well as a need for professional and financial development, and development of a career with options for growth.

These things are necessary for my own personal situation, as I have explained to you. It has been a pleasure to work with your program, and to see the potential for growth realized in the youth I have worked with over the past two years. I hope that at any time you need a volunteer, you would feel free to call. As always, I am ready to give my free-time for Maryville.

Cardinal Bernardin,

I know it's been a long time since your letter came, but you asked why the change of attitude. I guess I can explain.

I don't mind working. I was living on 4 hours a night at St. Cyprian. I was doing the night calls, and the nursing home work. And I honestly don't mind.

But as long as the diocese has priests who don't do their work, or treat people like garbage - and still work as "priests in good standing" - then I can't feel comfortable.

Last Saturday I was at a good friend and former parishioner's wedding, at Mary Seat of Wisdom in Park Ridge. The pastor was rude, antagonistic, and anti-social. He moaned and fussed over vaccuuming a hallway rather than saying anything to the couple or their guests.

My brother arranged a 20th Anniversary class reunion at St. Theresa in Polaris for last Sunday. Although it took place on parish property, and ran most of the day, not one parish priest stopped by, even to check on how things were going.

Why are rude, thoughtless priests who don't care about their people allowed to continue? What I thought priesthood was meant to be does not exist yet in Chicago. I know why I don't care to return yet; I just wish I knew why these priests are still active.

Priest File

August 3, 1983

Dear Bob:

I appreciate very much your letter of July 25 telling me why you had a change of heart.

I certainly do not approve of priests' dealing with people in a shabby fashion. Through all the years I have been a bishop I have counseled priests to be kind and gentle with those whom they serve. It was to emphasize this point that I wrote my booklet on the priesthood, entitled: "Called to Serve, Called to Lead".

The human condition, unfortunately, is such that there will always be priests who will be somewhat cold and rude. We must do everything we can to help them to change. My experience tells me, however, that for everyone who is this way there are many others who exhibit the qualities of Christ in their lives and ministries.

I continue to pray for you each day. When you need me you know that I am no farther away than the telephone.

With cordial good wishes, I remain

Fraternally yours in Christ,

Archbishop of Chicago

MEMORANDUM

TO: Cardinal Bernardin
FROM: Tom Ventura TV
DATE: August 5, 1983
SUBJECT: Robert Friesse

1. On June 18, John Smyth at Maryville phoned me to express his concern about Bob who, as you know, is no longer functioning as a priest. Today, I phoned Smyth to follow-up on the matter. John informed me that Bob had been terminated recently and was now staying at his parents' home in Barrington. Smyth said he had a long and fairly constructive talk with Bob, who mentioned he intends to stay away from the priesthood for five years.
2. Smyth said that Bob had done very well initially at Maryville and that he had given Bob a very positive evaluation last year. However, he had become much less effective in recent months and eventually had to be let go. (Smyth allowed Bob to "resign" in order to improve his record for future jobs.)
3. My question is this:
 - a) What is Bob's status with the Diocese? (Jim Roache indicated that you had dealt with Bob.)
 - b) Do you want me to contact Bob or do anything on this or just let it be unless and until Bob takes the initiative?

Fr. Smyth,

I am in the process of applying to the University of Illinois, Circle Campus, for a Master's degree program beginning this fall. The degree is a Master's of Education: Advanced Specialization in Child Care Work.

This degree would be a natural continuation of my work with youth in placement or contact with State of Illinois Agencies; whether through their being abused, neglected, in need of shelter - all of the reasons that would necessitate agency involvement. This would allow me to move into higher positions, possibly administrative or supervisory roles.

Part of the application for this program includes letters of recommendation of my ability to pursue independent study. I am asking you for a letter to that effect, if you feel you are able to do so. In this case, please send the letter, titled "application to the Master's of Education: Advanced Specialization in Child Care Work" to my address above.

If however you feel that you cannot recommend me, please feel free to write to me and explain why and what your reasons are.

Thank you for your time, and your consideration.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am writing this letter of recommendation for an application to Master of Education: Advanced Specialization in Child Care Work. The applicant is Mr. Robert D. Friese.

Robert Friese has worked at Maryville Academy for approximately two years and has gone through our training program in the Teaching Parent model of child care. He applied himself diligently and learned quickly because of his high degree of intelligence.

He has shown a great deal of dedication in the area of child care, and I am sure he would be a worthwhile candidate for this program.

Sincerely,

Rev. John P. Smyth

Re: Reverend Robert D. Frieese

Date: October 25, 1983

Dear Archbishop:

I have spent some time with Bob Frieese's file. It is difficult to sum it all up in just a few pages. I hope you have some questions, because I'm sure that my summary and recommendations have not touched on all the points.

This report and the material in Bob's file can be broken into four categories:

- I - Letters about Bob from St. Cyprian, Nov. and Dec. 1979..
- II - The Archdiocese and Bob Frieese
- III - Letter by Bob Frieese.
- IV - Letters in support of Bob Frieese by Priests and others

I have also spoken to [REDACTED] (Part V). In Part VI, I have added my own tentative recommendations.

I - Letters about Bob Frieese - Nov and Dec. 1979

Can be broken in 3 categories - 9 letters asking for his transfer, 8 letters asking he be left at St. Cyprians and 3 letters asking for help in Settling the issues and turmoil at the parish.

Frieese apparently had a confrontation with the school principal, who resigned. He also had a confrontation with the "old guard" of the parish where it is alleged that he threatened physical violence. Frieese also had a confrontation with Fr. Tom Dore, the resident, where he told Dore to get more involved or move.

Whatever good Frieese was doing, it's also obvious that his style was upsetting many people. He was involved in a power play. His pattern of behavior seems to indicate that he was not in touch with how he came off in relation to others. He had no idea that he was causing problems.

Appendix II

-60-

I feel an accurate conclusion of the letters comes from [REDACTED] letter.

"We have lost a fine educator in our past principal, [REDACTED] who I feel was driven out by a new, highly ambitious but insensitive DRE, a young and earnest but unfortunately temperamental Assistant Pastor and a genuinely interested but indecisive Pastor. Moods have become embittered and relationships strained due to alignments. In spite of this, we have tried to carry on, but new various members of the parish have become victim to personal attacks both verbal and physical".

II - The Archdiocese and Bob Friese

- Bob was ordained a deacon in 1977 and stationed at Mary, Seat of Wisdom, Park Ridge.
- Bob was ordained a priest in May, 1978 and assigned to St. Cyprian, River Grove.
- Bob was "temporarily assigned" to St. Juliana's parish, March 17, 1980
- Bob was given a temporary leave of absence, September 25, 1980.

This section of the file includes (1) official assignment letters and seminary background (2) Vicar Ted Jakubowski's letter of recommendation that Bob be moved from St. Cyprian's and (3) Dick Keatings records of his dealing with Bob.

I suggest you read Keatings summaries - I've marked them "A" and "B". From my involvement in the developments concerning Friese, I know they are accurate.

Some personal observations: Dick's records indicate and refer to Friese's behavior and his suspicions that Bob's behavior was not always "normal". Although it might be too strong to say that Friese is sick, it seems that Bob's behavior indicated that he needed professional care.

The problem seems to have been that Dick had a difficulty relating to Bob. Sometimes Dick is not sensitive to people in pain. But also it could be that Bob's psychological trauma can be most aptly seen in his relationship with authority figures.

Another note. Cardinal Cody seems to have been pressuring Dick to resolve the problem. His note on one of the complaint letters (Note to K.) was "What can we do about this by Sunday?"

III - Letters by Friese

There are 10 letters that Bob has written included in his file.

The First letter Jan. 15, 1980 was written to parish organization heads about a newcomers' fair to be held at St. Cyprian. The main problem at St. Cyprian can be seen in this letter. Bob Friese was assuming the pastor's authority and speaking for the staff.

The Second letter, Dec. 1, 1979 is filled with anger and cynicism. Bob is addressing Keating as "Vicar of the personnel board" and goes on to tell him why he is indispensable at Cyprians. Again the authority and control problem can be seen.

The rest of the letters are written after Bob's leave of absence. They are addressed to Keating or to the Cardinal. They are angry letters. Some threaten legal action. [REDACTED]

One letter to the Cardinal asks for a private meeting, but with Father Don Ahearn (Pastor of St. Juliana) to come with to Clarify what Bob is saying. Ahearn, the letter goes on to say, has not been informed about this request.

The rest of the letters deal with extensions of the leave and Bob's desire to return to active ministry. Also included is a letter to Tom Murphy about Bob changing Diocese. The Cardinal's reply to Bob's letter of March 30, 1982 is interesting. "I feel like telling him to find another diocese where his condition will be unknown".

Personal Observations: The letters by Bob I feel show his disturbed state. He speaks for the staff without their knowledge, he is angry with Keating and the Board. He is unable to accept help and counseling.

IV - Letters of support of Bob

From Fr. Don Ahearn, Fr. John Smyth (Maryville) and [REDACTED] (Bob's co-workers at Maryville) and Bob's parents.

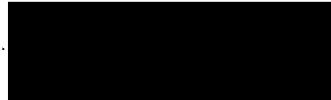

Bob's problems are not seen by everyone. He might have worked through some of the anger and problems while at Maryville.

V - [REDACTED]

VI - Recommendation

It seems to me that Bob is a disturbed person. [REDACTED]

Cardinal Bernardin,

As you probably have suspected, this letter has been coming for a long time. I suspect it really began when I met with Fr. Heidenreich at your request. At that time, I was told that any repercussions which were a result of the situation I have lived through would just have to be lived with,

While I have no reason to doubt your sincerity in wanting me to return to active priesthood, I have serious reservations about the feelings of my brother priests in regards to myself, the actual support and assistance which the diocese will offer, and my own satisfaction and ability to function effectively within a non-supportive environment. I cannot see myself once again putting all of my energy and effort into something which already has a built-in high degree of failure or risk. There is no way I can begin again in say five years to build another life.

Yet I don't want to make such a decision at a time when I am feeling frustrated. Priesthood (or not priesthood) should be a choice made entirely in freedom; freedom which must have options that are real and viable. More and more I am seeing that priesthood is not viable for myself, and that is the reason I am writing. At this time, I am in neither world: cleric or laity. As such I am in constant tension as to which world I belong. One world, the lay world, does not understand why I am not married, don't date, and decides their own derogatory conclusions. The other world looks at me like some form of fallen degenerate person. The time has come for a final choice.

I cannot return to priesthood. There is no chance of me being effective or successful. I would constantly run into the past being dragged into the present. And I would be of little value to this church.

Yet I don't want to be separated from the church which I believe in so much. If by some chance I do decide to someday get married, I want that marriage to take place within the Catholic Church, with the full rights and responsibilities of a Catholic. I want any children of mine to be practicing Catholics, and not to wonder why their father won't be participating in a church about which he knows so much.

I know that the process for laicization is long and difficult; and that the Pope has been less than quick to grant such decrees. Yet I cannot stay in this present state. While I cannot see myself requesting any release from priesthood on spiritual or mental or psychological pre-conditions, I cannot in justice stay as I am now.

I would like to hear from you soon by letter as to what I should do. Please understand that this is no comment on yourself or the church in Chicago; it is simply a fact that must be faced in order to move forward.

Thank you for your patience with me, your understanding and gentle support. I look forward to your letter.

RE: Robert D. Friese

I have just received a letter from Bob Friese stating that he now has decided to leave the priesthood and asking about the laicization process. It does not surprise me that he wants to leave and I doubt that there is anything you or I can do to change his mind. Still, there is much about Bob and his reason for leaving that perplexes me. I am enclosing copies of the letters we have exchanged since I arrived in 1982.

The point that he constantly makes is that he does not receive the needed support from other priests. Apparently he has been deeply hurt by someone or some group.

How would you respond to his last letter? The easiest thing is to acknowledge his letter, thank him for his past service, and ask him to discuss the laicization process with Ken Velo. But somehow, this case seems to need more. I would appreciate your counsel in this instance.

Many thanks.

Dear Bob:

Thank you for your letter of May 27. I appreciate the fact that you shared with me some of the thoughts and reflections which grow out of your painful struggling with the important decisions about your future. The words of your letter reflect the inner debate, first leaning in one direction, then in another. This must have been a very challenging time for you. I want you to know that I have tried to support you with my prayers during this period when, as you said so well, "I am in neither world, cleric or lay."

Concerning some of the specific points you made, let me contribute these observations. First, I understand your apprehensions about having the past dragged into the present if you return to the priesthood. However, have you considered the possibility of returning to active ministry in another diocese? Then, after a period of solid work, you could return to Chicago with no cloud over your head, since you would have a proven record of effective ministry. I have been able to make such arrangements in other situations. Other bishops have been most cooperative, and the arrangements have generally worked out well. If you are interested in pursuing this possibility, please let me know.

Concerning your observations about the laicization process, your remarks are correct. Currently it is a lengthy process, and in most cases the Holy See is reluctant to grant a decree of laicization. Here in the Archdiocese, we try to be as helpful as we can in assisting resigned priests who wish to apply for laicization, but, as you can understand, our effectiveness is limited. Should you wish to begin the process, I would recommend that you contact Father Ken Velo at 751-8213. I am sure you will find him very knowledgeable and helpful. You may be sure that I shall do all I can to facilitate the process.

Again, Bob, let me say that I understand the tension and turmoil under which you have been trying to make these very important decisions. If I can be of further assistance to you, please do not hesitate to contact me. May the Lord continue to be close to you.

With cordial good wishes, I remain

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Archbishop of Chicago

MEMORANDUM

CONFIDENTIAL

TO: Cardinal Bernardin
FROM: Tom Ventura TV
DATE: September 24, 1984
SUBJECT: Bob Friese

1. I saw Bob on September 18, 1984. He gave me a long, rambling account of his relationship with the young man, [REDACTED] who has accused him of sexual abuse. Here is a summary:

Summer 1982: Bob first met [REDACTED] then 13, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

June 1983: Bob left his job at Maryville. He says that he quit. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

After June 1983: Bob [REDACTED] would like to adopt him, but Bob could not make any headway on this. Evidently the social agencies blocked his efforts. Bob would meet [REDACTED] quite often and talk with him, background to the Cardinal, b) [REDACTED] [REDACTED], c) realizing that this case may put the Cardinal and the Church in a difficult situation, Bob would like to respond to any questions or concerns the Cardinal may have.

3. In discussing Bob Friese, you had asked me to discuss his previous communication to you in which he criticized priests for their lack of effectiveness. Here is the gist of his response. (As he spoke he seemed to focus on his former pastor)...Some are harmful to people... They may have been effective priests at one time, but they have not kept up their skills, their theology...As a result they don't serve people well...They alienate people, they avoid confronting difficult issues...The Archdiocese doesn't get them the help they need, it doesn't support them or deal with them effectively...they leave such priests and their people in the lurch.

IN SUMMARY: Bob was very intense, very talkative. I had to focus him again and again to bring order to the story. He seemed to cast himself in the role of "saving" [REDACTED]. At times I wondered by Bob persisted in what seemed to be a hopeless case. I was surprised that Bob was not more upset about his own fate. At times it almost seemed that he was an observer rather than a participant in the story.

I WOULD RECOMMEND that you see him, but set a definite time limit (e.g., one half hour) which you announce clearly at the outset, and have someone buzz you at the end of that time.

I'd further recommend that you open the meeting with a statement that you had read my report and felt you had a good grasp on the background. I'd also advert to the fact that you [REDACTED] hope that, whatever the outcome of the case, [REDACTED]. You might also say that you are not worried about excessive harm to the Church in this case, but that your main concern is a) that justice be done by a good, fair legal process and b) that Bob eventually be a happy, effective person.

Then I would ask him what he would like to discuss in addition to these matters. Good luck.

PA. Bob has not seen this memo

taking him to dinner and movies, etc. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] As Bob describes all of this, he depicts himself as [REDACTED] advisor, confidant, friend.

Spring 1984: Bob noticed [REDACTED] changing for the worse. [REDACTED]

August 16, 1984: [REDACTED]

August 21, 1984: Convinced that all other efforts to get [REDACTED] to change had failed, Bob contacted the police. He gave them full information about [REDACTED] activities, his pimp, his other contacts, etc.

August 28, 1984: The police arrested Bob on charges brought against him by [REDACTED] who claimed that Bob had sexually abused him on a number of occasions. In describing this event Bob stated that he admitted to the charges (although he says they were untrue) because he saw it as the only effective way to get [REDACTED] off the street and into some care. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] When I asked if this wasn't a very damaging admission for his court hearing, Bob seemed surprisingly unconcerned, stating that his official plea was "not guilty.")

Currently: Bob is out on bail. He has secured an attorney, [REDACTED] who cautioned him not to talk to me but only to the Cardinal. He urged that all of this material be dealt with in the strictest confidence. The initial hearing will be October 3, 1984 at which time this case will be assigned to a specific judge's calendar for trial.

2. I asked, "Bob what are you asking the Cardinal to do for you?" He replied that his attorney would like Bob to ask the Cardinal to intervene, but Bob doesn't think that would be fair. It would put the Cardinal in an awkward position. There are plenty of vindictive people who hate the Church, he said, and who would like to strike a blow at the Church through this case. So in speaking to the Cardinal, Bob would like to a) explain the

Re: FATHER BOB FRIESE

I met with Father Friesse on October 24. He was very frightened, nervous. He did not ask for anything; he simply wanted to apologize for any embarrassment he might have caused and to explain personally what had happened.

Basically he told me what he had told Father Ventura. I told him he would probably have a difficult time convincing people that he lied to help the young man in question -- but he swears that his story is true.

I tried to give him moral support, indicating that I could do nothing about the trial, etc. He understood this.

In terms of his priestly status, he will not decide definitely until after the trial is over what he wants to do. I thought he was pretty determined to leave but this does not now seem to be the case. So we will just have to wait and see. My own opinion is that -- aside from the present crisis -- he has serious emotional problems. I doubt that he will ever return. At least now he feels a little better toward the Archdiocese and me.

cc: Father Ventura

Dear Cardinal,

I want to thank you for your very generous kindness and time when I met with you. You really didn't need to stress that you were concerned about me, not the publicity. That has always been clear. And the meeting was just one more example of that concern.

I'm especially encouraged by you not pushing me into a decision about my fears of absence. More than anything else, with that openness and patience, you have given me a sense of hope, courage and encouragement. It seems very easy right now for me to give up, to decide that fighting for myself is not possible. Or to feel that I've become some decreed leper who is actively avoided. Thanks for reassuring me that I'm human, I'm normal. That people can talk with me without feeling uncomfortable.

I will keep in touch, although I'm not sure how often. It really depends on when something actually happens. Please thank both Ed Harasin and Tom Ventura for helping me to see you.

I'd like to ask two favors of you, neither for me. Remember those poor kids at Belmont and Broadway. They are almost all without families, education, homes and futures. They are easy targets for prostitution, lured by a place to stay, drugs to avoid their pain, and money which seems like a fortune. That area is the same place John Haug suggested picked up kids - and after all this time it is still going on. Someone has to help, because I've seen police ignore teenagers at 24th openly drinking and doing drugs.

Then worse, Maryville Academy has just opened a boys' home in the area. He very careful - one agency had 8 out of 10 of their boys active in the area, and could be in deep trouble. Warning signs to watch for are large amounts of time out of the house, drug use including marijuana cocaine amphetamines. Also injecting drugs. The house seem to be after 8 PM. Brown's Chicken is the worst spot. Make sure that Maryville doesn't get into a mess. Vic Major is good - let him know what to watch for. If Maryville is agreeable, I'd even meet with Fr. Smyth and Vic to tell them what to look for.

When the police began to check out my background, they apparently contacted Catholic Charities. Dr. Michael Cuffaro took it upon himself to contact my son, Dr. Tom Linton, and strongly suggest he give me.

I called her back and warned her that such talk could lead to lawsuits. It is also very upsetting that "Catholic charity" should be warped to include trying to give people not working for them, and on the basis of allegations. I hope she got the message that gossip is both morally wrong and legally dangerous. Maybe you could reinforce that message.

Thanks again for helping. Please include your prayers -

And I got him into help soon enough.

Dear Bob:

Many thanks for your recent letter. I am glad we had a chance to get together. Our discussion gave me a better understanding of your perspective of the difficulty in which you find yourself. I continue to give you a special remembrance in my prayers each day. I hope that everything will be resolved as quickly as possible.

I also appreciate your insights as to the problems which could arise in our home for boys in the uptown area. I have been assured that those responsible for the home are aware of the potential problems and are taking measures to forestall any difficulties from occurring.

Relative to the circumstances in which you were terminated, I have shared your concerns with the superiors of Dr. Caffaro. I must leave the matter in their hands.

Once again, be assured of my continued concern and prayers for you.

With cordial good wishes, I remain

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Re: The case of Robert Friese

Date: November 15, 1985

Today, I spoke with Bishop John R. Keating, to ask for a clarification of the memorandum dated September 9, 1980 of a meeting between then Father Keating, [REDACTED]

Bishop Keating informed me that [REDACTED] and that when he mentioned certain allegations about Friese, [REDACTED] told him that they should talk with Father Keating. During this conversation, there were no allegations of pedophilia. The reference in the 9/9/80 memorandum to a sexual act was to a simulated sex act. The parties were all dressed and it was in the context of rough-housing.

Bishop Keating stated emphatically that he knew nothing about Friese's employment at Maryville, that this was done without his consultation, and that when he learned about it, he "hit the ceiling."

Bishop Keating said that Friese was a severely disturbed individual. Despite the psychological disturbances, there was no evidence at that time of pedophilia.

Reverend Velo,

I have recieved the copy of your letter to my lawyer, Mr. Ron Bredemann. This will be an excellent document to indicate that I have indeed been working to comply with the orders of the court.

I hope that my thanks will be heard not only by yourself but also by those in corner offices. It is my intention to keep them from being mentioned or included in any way during this process; yet I completely understand the contribution which they make to such prompt and helpful actions.

I understand the reasons which you indicated in your letter to my lawyer; and in my mind I cannot see that there could be any different response regarding the use of this residential location. With best wishes, lia. 49, said in an interview he had asked for reassignment because he had been under tremendous pressure since his acquittal of Michael Colella, 27, of Elmwood Park, in a bench trial (without a jury) last week.

He said he wanted an assignment with a lower profile. Comerford said the new assignment will be in a pre-trial court.

But a judge for six years, Comerford had no idea Colella had been in his court "until it was brought to my attention by the District Attorney's office."

if I had known this, it played a role in my second-guessing my history. I may have difference in my ruling," he said. "I had no idea."

Judge Lawrence A. Passarella has acquitted a woman whose car killed two people and has granted probation to a priest convicted of sex crimes against a minor and a man who stole a plane and threatened to crash it into a restaurant.

His acquittal last week of a weight lifter who allegedly beat two Chicago police officers with a metal bar was the latest in a series of controversial decisions by the six-year Circuit Court judge.

Last July 23, he caused some raised eyebrows when he acquitted a Skokie woman whose car had gone out of control and killed two people at State and Chestnut. The woman, Sheila Dear, 51, contended that the accelerator stuck on her

By Lloyd Green

Datsun 280ZX, causing it to race along the street at high speed.

Passarella said that, under the law, he could not exclude "any reasonable hypothesis of innocence" as the reason for the fiery crash.

On Jan. 15, Passarella left prosecutors grumbling when he placed a Roman Catholic priest on probation after he was convicted of sex charges involving a teenage boy he met while working as a counselor.

Prosecutors, often upset when they feel a sentence is too light, had argued for a prison sentence for the priest, the Rev. Robert D. Friese, 33, of Inverness. But Passarella ordered Friese to undergo psychiatric treatment at a residential facility and to volunteer 11 hours a week in community service during a maximum probation period of four years.

Passarella career marked by controversial rulings

He gave 30 months' probation to a man who stole an airplane and threatened to dive it into a restaurant where his estranged wife worked. The pilot, Frank Moore, 36, of 5105 N. East River, was directed to get treatment for alcoholism.

Still, Passarella can be tough. Last July 3, he sentenced Marvin Hoskins, 27, of 4559 S. Indiana, to 60 years in prison in the fatal shooting of his pregnant ex-girlfriend, Linda Chappell, 16.

Passarella, 49, has been a Circuit Court judge for six years. His first assignment was at the Elmwood branch, and he has been assigned to the criminal division since 1982.

Prior to becoming a judge, he served as a Cook County assistant state's attorney.

He attended Fenwick High School and was graduated from Northwestern University Law School in 1961.

Colella record shows 18 arrests, few convictions

By Lloyd Green and Phillip J. O'Connor

When Michael A. Colella was acquitted last week in the brutal beating of two Chicago police officers, he walked out of the courtroom with a smile on his face.

The 225-pound weight lifter had won acquittal once again. Although he has a record of 18 arrests, according to police, he has few convictions.

Police say Colella, 27, a bakery worker, seems ready to fight at any time.

In fact, he has another battery charge pending against him from an incident that occurred last Sept. 26 in a tavern at 8540 W. Lawrence in Norridge.

Norridge Police Chief Medard Zabratanski said Patrick Nelson, 31, of Niles, was knocked to the floor and kicked numerous times after a quarrel over a bowling game. Nelson was treated at Resurrection Hospital and released.

Colella, of Elmwood Park, was charged with battery and is free on $10,000 bond. He will appear in court April 2 in Harwood Heights.

Zabratanski said it was Colella's second arrest in Norridge. On July 12, 1980, he knocked a 39-year-old man to the sidewalk in the 8500 block of West Lawrence after accusing the man of looking at Colella's girlfriend.

This man, too, was treated and released at Resurrection Hospital.

Colella was charged with battery. He was fined $150 and given a year's court supervision.

Although most of Colella's arrests have been for fighting, he also has been picked up on charges of theft, possession of drugs and resisting arrest, police records show.

He has been arrested in River Forest, Elmwood Park, Lombard, Schaumburg, Addison, Stone Park and Schiller Park, as well as in Chicago and Norridge.

Police Chief Dewey Paoletti of Elmwood Park said Colella was arrested in his suburb July 1, 1980, after a fight in the street at Grand and Harlem.

But none of Colella's many fights equaled the beating on New Year's Eve, 1984, of Chicago police officers Cathy Touhy and James Semmler. Police said Colella attacked them with a metal bar at 5646 W. Augusta after being stopped for a traffic violation.

Touhy, 33, suffered a broken nose, fractured facial bone and cut lip, while Semmler, 27, suffered cuts on his right knee, face and arm.

FRIESE

4 years probation for former priest

by Jackie Koszczuk

Herald staff writer

A former priest from Inverness was sentenced Wednesday to four years probation and ordered to undergo psychological counseling for sexually abusing a ward of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

Robert Friese, 33, of 2118 Freeman Court, must stay in psychotherapy until his therapists certify "the need for treatment no longer exists," ruled Cook County Circuit Judge Lawrence Passarella, who presided over Friese's trial in November.

He also ordered Friese to contribute 10 percent of his salary to a college or vocational school fund to be established in his victim's name. Passarella said the victim will be eligible to receive the money after Friese's four years of probation are over.

Friese is unemployed and will not be able to work until he completes treatment at the House of Affirmation, a Chicago area residential counseling center for priests. Passarella said therapists must certify Friese's mental health and the court must approve the certification before Friese can discontinue therapy.

Friese was on leave from active duty from the Chicago Archdiocese when he was arrested on sex charges on Aug. 28, 1984.

FRIESE ALSO must fulfill 11

hours a week of public service during his probation, working part-time for the Royal Elm Nursing Home in Elmwood Park and Recordings for the Blind in Chicago.

Passarella could have sentenced Friese to a maximum of 15 years in jail for taking indecent liberties with a child and up to seven years for aggravated sexual abuse. Friese has no prior criminal record.

He was convicted of molesting a 15-year-old ward of Maryville Academy, where he once worked as a counselor and where he befriended his victim.

The academy's executive director, Rev. John P. Smyth, testified at the trial he fired Friese in May 1983 after other staff members complained about Friese's erratic behavior. The boy ran away from Maryville and became a street prostitute in Chicago's largely homosexual New Town neighborhood.

The boy told Chicago police investigators Friese would visit him in the neighborhood and the two would have sex in Friese's car. After his arrest, Friese confessed to police he had sex with the boy. But he later retracted the confession, saying he only wanted draw the attention of juvenile authorities, whom he said were not helping solve the boy's problems with drugs and prostitution.

Priest gets probation for child sex abuse

By Linnet Myers

A former parish priest, now on leave from the Chicago Catholic archdiocese, was sentenced to four years' probation Wednesday for sexually abusing a 14-year-old boy.

"This is a very difficult type of case," Asst. State's Atty. Robert Cleary told Criminal Court Judge Lawrence Passarella.

"The key thing is the betrayal of the trust of a 14-year-old boy. They had a father-son type relationship. The defendant was a priest, he was a teacher."

Cleary asked Judge Passarella to sentence Robert Friese, formerly a parish priest on the North Side and in River Grove, to prison.

But defense attorney Ron Bredemann argued that Friese already had been through "pain and suffering as a result of going from a position of deep respect in the community at large, to one of scorn."

The judge approved a strict probation plan suggested by the National Center on Institutions and Alternatives. It requires Friese to live at the House of Affirmation, a residential treatment center for priests; to continue psychotherapy once he leaves the center; to do community service work at an Elmwood Park nursing home and at Recordings for the Blind; and to put 10 percent of any salary he makes into an account to pay for the victim's education.

Trial evidence showed that Friese, 33, of Inverness, began abusing the boy in October, 1982, when the boy was living in Maryville Academy, a home for troubled youths.

Friese was a counselor there, and the archdiocese has said that he will never again be a parish priest.

After his arrest in August, 1984,

Friese admitted to police that he had sexually abused the boy on several occasions. But on the witness stand during the November trial, Friese said he had lied to police. The boy had told police of the abuse and Friese said thought he would help the youth if he told police that what the boy said was true, he testified.

On Wednesday, Friese again said that he signed the "false" confession as a "self-sacrifice" to help the boy. He compared himself to "someone who runs into a burning building" and "has no idea if they'll come out alive."

Judge Passarella called Friese's statement "very interesting" and said it showed that he still denied "the harm that has befallen the victim."

The judge also said the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services "is not without blame,"

for putting the youth in a vulnerable position that caused him to depend on someone who abused him. According to trial evidence, the victim had been constantly moved from home to home before he was sent to Maryville.

"How many different settings was he in—some 20 or more over a 14-year period? How can any human being get any idea of what family life is like, or what home life is like under those circumstances?" the judge asked.

Friese, who became a priest in 1978, was first a parish priest at St. Cyprian Catholic Church in River Grove and later was transferred to St. Juliana's on Chicago's North Side.

Cleary later said that the victim "has never been the same since all this. It pushed him over the edge. He was scared and depressed. How would you feel if the guy you looked up to did this to you?"

He said he wanted an assignment with a lower profile. Comerford said the new assignment probably will be in a civil court.

A judge for six years, Colella had been called 13 times "until it was my attention by the Sun-Times. I'm stunned to find it was never brought out."

If I had known this, it played a role in my second-guessing my history. I had any idea of this history, it may have made a difference in my ruling."

A former priest from Inverness was sentenced Wednesday to four years probation and ordered to undergo psychological counseling for sexually abusing a ward of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

Robert Friese, 33, of 2118 Freeman Court, must stay in psychotherapy until his therapists certify "the need for treatment no longer exists," ruled Cook County Circuit Judge Lawrence Passarella, who presided over Friese's trial in November.

He also ordered Friese to contribute 10 percent of his salary to a college or vocational school fund to be established in his victim's name. Passarella said the victim will be eligible to receive the money after Friese's four years of probation are over.

Friese is unemployed and will not be able to work until he completes treatment at the House of Affirmation, a Chicago area residential counseling center for priests. Passarella said therapists must certify Friese's mental health and the court must approve the certification before Friese can discontinue therapy.

Friese was on leave from active duty from the Chicago Archdiocese when he was arrested on sex charges on Aug. 28, 1984.

FRIESE ALSO must fulfill 11

hours a week of public service during his probation, working part-time for the Royal Elm Nursing Home in Elmwood Park and Recordings for the Blind in Chicago.

Passarella could have sentenced Friese to a maximum of 15 years in jail for taking indecent liberties with a child and up to seven years for aggravated sexual abuse. Friese has no prior criminal record.

He was convicted of molesting a 15-year-old ward of Maryville Academy, where he once worked as a counselor and where he befriended his victim.

The academy's executive director, Rev. John P. Smyth, testified at the trial he fired Friese in May 1983 after other staff members complained about Friese's erratic behavior. The boy ran away from Maryville and became a street prostitute in Chicago's largely homosexual New Town neighborhood.

The boy told Chicago police investigators Friese would visit him in the neighborhood and the two would have sex in Friese's car. After his arrest, Friese confessed to police he had sex with the boy. But he later retracted the confession, saying he only wanted draw the attention of juvenile authorities, whom he said were not helping solve the boy's problems with drugs and prostitution.

Priest gets probation for child sex abuse

By Linnet Myers

A former parish priest, now on leave from the Chicago Catholic archdiocese, was sentenced to four years' probation Wednesday for sexually abusing a 14-year-old boy.

"This is a very difficult type of case," Asst. State's Atty. Robert Cleary told Criminal Court Judge Lawrence Passarella.

"The key thing is the betrayal of the trust of a 14-year-old boy. They had a father-son type relationship. The defendant was a priest, he was a teacher."

Cleary asked Judge Passarella to sentence Robert Friese, formerly a parish priest on the North Side and in River Grove, to prison.

But defense attorney Ron Bredemann argued that Friese already had been through "pain and suffering as a result of going from a position of deep respect in the community at large, to one of scorn."

The judge approved a strict probation plan suggested by the National Center on Institutions and Alternatives. It requires Friese to live at the House of Affirmation, a residential treatment center for priests; to continue psychotherapy once he leaves the center; to do community service work at an Elmwood Park nursing home and at Recordings for the Blind; and to put 10 percent of any salary he makes into an account to pay for the victim's education.

Trial evidence showed that Friese, 33, of Inverness, began abusing the boy in October, 1982, when the boy was living in Maryville Academy, a home for troubled youths.

Friese was a counselor there, and the archdiocese has said that he will never again be a parish priest.

After his arrest in August, 1984,

Friese admitted to police that he had sexually abused the boy on several occasions. But on the witness stand during the November trial, Friese said he had lied to police. The boy had told police of the abuse and Friese said thought he would help the youth if he told police that what the boy said was true, he testified.

On Wednesday, Friese again said that he signed the "false" confession as a "self-sacrifice" to help the boy. He compared himself to "someone who runs into a burning building" and "has no idea if they'll come out alive."

Judge Passarella called Friese's statement "very interesting" and said it showed that he still denied the harm that has befallen the victim.

The judge also said the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services "is not without blame" for putting the youth in a vulnerable position that caused him to depend on someone who abused him. According to trial evidence, the victim had been constantly moved from home to home before he was sent to Maryville.

"How many different settings was he in—some 20 or more over a 14-year period? How can any human being get any idea of what family life is like, or what home life is like under those circumstances?" the judge asked.

Friese, who became a priest in 1978, was first a parish priest at St. Cyprian Catholic Church in River Grove and later was transferred to St. Juliana's on Chicago's North Side.

Cleary later said that the victim "has never been the same since all this. It pushed him over the edge. He was scared and depressed. How would you feel if the guy you looked up to did this to you?"

Priest faces sex charges involving teenage boy

By Rosalind Rossi

A Roman Catholic priest, on leave from the Chicago Archdiocese, was indicted yesterday on sex charges involving a teen-age boy.

The first of the three alleged incidents occurred while the Rev. Robert D. Friese, 32, worked at a suburban home for troubled youths and involved a resident, then 13, of the home, investigators said.

Friese, of 2118 Freeman Court, Inverness, currently is assigned as a researcher at the University of Illinois-Chicago's Child Care Program, which trains students who want to work in institutions for disturbed children.

Friese was indicted on three sex charges involving a youth, now 15, he allegedly met while working at the Maryville Academy, a residential home for troubled youths at 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines. He is no longer employed at the home, investigators said.

He is accused of molesting the youth in Maryville in October of 1982 and engaging in a sex act with the teenager that same month in his home, investigators said.

Friese also is accused of another sexual incident on July 31, 1984.

Priest convicted of sexual abuse

by Jackie Koszczuk

Herald staff writer Daily Herald 1/18/85

What should have been an "innocent relationship" between a teenage boy and an Inverness priest who befriended him deteriorated into a case of criminal sexual abuse, a Cook County judge ruled Friday.

Judge Lawrence A. Passarella convicted the Rev. Robert Friese, 33, on charges of taking indecent liberties with a child and aggravated criminal sexual abuse. Friese, 2118 Freeman Court, sat motionless at the defense table as Passarella announced his finding after a six-week bench trial.

Passarella rejected Friese's claim he lied when he confessed to police he had sex with a 15-year-old ward of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines because he believed it would force state officials to place the boy, a prostitute and drug abuser, in a locked facility.

Friese became caught "in a tangled web of deceit" in attempts to hide his conduct, Passarella said.

"WHAT OCCURRED HERE, what otherwise would have been an innocent relationship, deteriorated into a series of bizarre events that resulted in criminal acts," Passarella said.

Friese was charged with indecent liberties under the state's old sex crime law, which provides for up to a 15-year jail term. He was charged with one count of aggravated sexual abuse, providing for a maximum seven-year sentence under the new Illinois sex crime statute designed to reduce jail terms for some crimes but make it easier to win convictions for sex crimes.

Friese was on leave from active duty in the Chicago archdiocese when he was arrested on Aug. 28, 1984. According to Catholic law, priests are ordained for life but can be assigned permanent inactive status. Archdiocese spokeswoman Marie Feller said Friese "will not be returning to active ministry."

He was ordained in 1978 after completing studies at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Mundelein. He worked over a year as a parish priest in River Grove and then took a leave from the priesthood.

In March 1981, Friese was hired as a counselor at Maryville Academy, the Des Plaines-based home for troubled and dependent children. There he befriended an emotionally troubled Chicago boy abandoned by his parents at age 2. In a written confession given to police and used by prosecutors as evidence, Friese is quoted as saying the relationship became "an adult concern."

THE REV. JOHN P. Smyth, Maryville executive director, testified he fired Friese in May 1983 after other staff members complained about erratic behavior. But Smyth testified he gave Friese a letter of recommendation to enter a master's program in child care at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The boy ran away from Maryville and became a street prostitute in Chicago's largely homosexual New Town neighborhood. Friese testified he tried to help the boy get his life in order, but became discouraged when state and police officials wouldn't help him. The defense claimed the boy made up stories about sexual abuse when he discovered Friese had informed on him to police.

The boy testified he and Friese had sex seven or eight times, usually in Friese's car.

Ex-priest convicted in sex abuse of teen

By Rosalind Rossi

A 33-year-old priest on leave from the Chicago Archdiocese was convicted yesterday of sexually abusing a 14-year-old chronic runaway he had met while working at a home for troubled youths and had wanted to adopt.

Robert Friese, of 2118 Freeman Ct. in Inverness, sat with his head bowed as Criminal Court Judge Lawrence Passarella announced his conviction on two of three counts involving a teenage state ward Friese called "son" while the youth called him "dad."

Friese was accused of molesting the 14-year-old in the teenager's room at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines while he worked there as a counselor in October of 1982, and of engaging in sex acts with the youth that same month in his Inverness home and in his car on July 31, 1984.

Passarella acquitted Friese of the October, 1982, molestation charge, saying he could not find that Friese intended to "arouse his own sexual satisfaction," as required under the phrasing of the indictment. But he convicted Friese of two charges that he engaged in sex acts with the teenager.

Friese testified he never engaged in sexual activity with the youth. He said he falsely admitted to police that he had done so because "I couldn't find any other way to get [the teenager] help."

Defense attorney Ronald Bredemann argued that after the Department of Children and Family Services had "punted" the teenager through 15 different placements since the age of 2, the youth finally found a "father figure" in Friese.

However, Bredemann contended, the teenager falsely accused Friese of sexual abuse after Friese discovered he was working as a prostitute and using drugs.

A spokesman for the Chicago Archdiocese said Friese had been ordained a priest in 1978 and served actively for only a year. Since then, he has lived as a layman, without authority to administer the sacraments, and is not expected to return to active ministry, the spokesman said.

A Catholic priest was found guilty Friday of sexually abusing a 14-year-boy who a prosecutor said thought of the priest as "the father he never had."

Criminal Court Judge Lawrence Passarella found Rev. Robert Friese, who is on leave from the Archdiocese of Chicago, guilty of aggravated criminal sexual abuse and taking indecent liberties with a child.

Father Friese, 33, admitted when he was interviewed by police after his August, 1984, arrest that he had abused the boy. But on the witness stand last week, he said, "I lied to the policemen." The boy had told police of the abuse, and Father Friese said he thought he would help the youth if he told police what the boy said was true.

Assistant State's Atty. James Comroe said that explanation "defies logic."

In announcing his verdict, Passarella said that there's "been deceit by other people... through out this whole matter."

He said the Department of Children and Family Services got custody of the victim when he was 2 years old and "they shunted him about... and really have given him very little chance."

According to trial testimony, the boy, now 17, has had 15 different placements during his 14 years with DCFS. In October, 1982, when the abuse began, the boy was living in Maryville Academy, a home for troubled youths, in Des Plaines.

Father Friese was a counselor there, but his initial concern for the boy "degenerated... into abuse," said Assistant State's Atty. Robert Cleary. Father Friese continued to see the boy after he was transferred to a group home, according to testimony.

Father Friese became a priest in May, 1978. He was first a parish priest at St. Cyprian Catholic Church, River Grove, and was transferred in 1980 to St. Juliana's on Chicago's North Side. He will be sentenced Dec. 16.

From: Father Kealy

Re: Robert D. Friese RK

Date: April 4, 1986

Robert D. Friese was ordained a priest for the Archdiocese of Chicago on May 10, 1978. He left the active ministry October 1, 1980. In a letter from the Chancellor dated September 25, 1980, his faculties were withdrawn and he was dispensed from the obligation of clerical garb and the Divine Office. He has complied with the regulations.

On September 13, 1984, he was arrested and charged with sexual misconduct with a minor. On November 15, 1985, he was found guilty of this offense and on January 15, 1976 was sentenced to four years probation [REDACTED]

Canon 1395, #2 provides that a cleric who has committed such an offense should be punished with just penalties. In this case, such an action would be pointless since the individual has not been allowed to function as a priest for over five years. He has indicated that he will seek laicization.

Dear Jerry:

Many thanks for your swift response to our request for information concerning [REDACTED] and Bob Friese. The testimony you have sent is very helpful.

I hope you are having a restful summer despite the interruptions I have caused with these and other requests.

Thanks again.
